DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1 through 13 and 15 through 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.
3. Regarding claim 1
4. The claim has been amended to read "wherein the intermediate layer comprises a substantially constant hole concentration in a thickness direction" in lines 10 and 11.
5. Regarding claim 7
6. The claim has been amended to read "wherein the intermediate layer comprises a substantially constant hole concentration in a thickness direction" in lines 17 and 18.
7. Regarding claim 11
8. The claim has been amended to read "wherein the low conductivity layer comprises a substantially constant hole concentration in a thickness direction" in lines 11 and 12.
9. There is insufficient support in the specification to support this amendment.

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments filed 6/15/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
11. Neither the specification nor figure 2 discloses a magnesium concentration of $1E19$ with a silicon concentration of $1E18$ or a magnesium concentration of $3E18$ with a silicon concentration of $3E17$ in the intermediate layer. Because the applicant posits the activation rate of the acceptor (Mg) is one tenth that of the donor (Si) concentrations of Mg ten times that of Si would be necessary to compensate. These concentrations are not shown in the specification (fig 2).
12. The applicant argues that the examiner has not provided sufficient support or reasoning to establish a prima facie case of new matter.
13. The applicant will note that the examiner noted that the subject matter was not present in the specification. This assertion is necessarily enough to establish a prima facie case of new matter. It unreasonable to require the examiner to point to where in the application subject matter is not present because the applicant is free to provide information in any section of the specification. MPEP 608.01.
14. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
